Karen Krugliak and Brit Olom Tours

BY LEE STEPHENS

Brit Olom Tours owner Karen Krugliak has been working in the travel industry for more than 25 years.

Brit Olom means "covenant with the world" in Hebrew. Krugliak's international travel experience exemplifies her company's name. About a year ago, Krugliak and her husband, Zvi, decided they could use their travel knowledge and expertise to create their own company, and Brit Olom Tours was born.

Although Krugliak's career began in radio and television broadcasting, after meeting her husband she realized they had a mutual interest and passion for travel. Her husband was born in Israel and has arranged and escorted tour groups to the Holy Land for many years, and designed and led groups to Israel for B'nai B'rith International.

Krugliak's years of travel experience and know-how made her the perfect choice to become the direct-business cruise coordinator for large company meetings and conventions, a position she held for many years before opening her company. Her knowledge, attention to detail, enthusiasm and love for travel have served her well through the years. She has arranged trips to locations around the globe.

Krugliak enjoys planning and launching different travel groups. She has organized fundraising cruises for non-profit organizations, as well as exotic adventures on the other side of the world. Recently she returned from escorting a group on a river cruise and tour through China. She leaves next month for Europe on a Jewish Heritage Danube cruise, a tour she designed.

Upcoming group tours by Brit Olom include a deluxe package to Israel in the fall that offers most meals and comprehensive touring; a Thanksgiving week cruise on the Oasis of the Seas, the largest cruise ship in the world; and a special Jewish Heritage Italy tour in 2011 that includes the Sistine Chapel.
